Incell is expanding and looking for two resources to our sourcing team

Strategic Buyers

Incell is growing and need to add two Strategic buyers to our sourcing team. One of the roles will be specialized on electronic PCBA and component sourcing and the other will be responsible for various categories. As our strategic buyer you will be part of the Sourcing team and develop our global supply chain in close collaboration with R&D, manufacturing and other functions at Incell. You will help to develop and establish an agile, efficient, secure and cost aware supply chain. We believe that to succeed in this role you like to work independently and in a global setting. You enjoy a high paced start-up environment and have a keen sense for quality.

Responsibilities for this role include:

- Drive selection, qualification and on-boarding process for new suppliers in line with Incell's Sourcing process
- Develop suppliers from screening and inquiry to contract negotiations and on-boarding.
- Cooperate with and develop international suppliers
- Facilitate continuous improvements of supplier performance regarding cost, lead time, quality and service
- Drive cost saving proposals including alternative sourcing

Who are you?

- You have at least 5 years experience in international supply chain management and/or strategic sourcing.
- For the role which is specialized in electronic PCBA: experience of electronic components and/or PCBA sourcing, technical understanding in Electronic Components business is preferred as well as understanding and experience in manufacturing process of the PCBA and Box Build
- University degree, in technical field or other relevant field.
- Proven ability to drive the Sourcing process with a total cost perspective
- High commercial and negotiation skills
- English and Swedish language business level and excellent communication skills.
